Tame the Yeast Beasts! Fight Yeast and Thrush With Herbs

Infants and young children with their tender skin and digestive systems are often plagued with various yeast/fungal problems. It's the nature of the 'beast'.

Yeasts naturally and normally inhabit the digestive system, along with friendly bacteria and other microorganisms. All of them are important for proper digestion and healthy absorption of nutrients. These organisms all live happily together in a symbiotic fashion until something happens that throws things out of whack. If your child has had antibiotics, corticosteroids, or has been eating a diet high in sugar and highly processed sweets and treats, chances are you're dealing with the "Yeast Beasts."

Candida albicans and other intestinal yeasts have been known to be the root cause of many reoccurring and chronic health problems when they get out of balance in the body. Systemic yeast infestation is often a part of the cause of non-specific allergies, ear inflammations, autoimmune system imbalances and emotional problems, as well as focusing and memory problems. Some kinds of diaper rashes are caused by yeasts, and thrush in the mouth is also related. The results can be quite 'beastly', causing all kinds of problems with health and emotions until balance is once again restored.

Designed to gently expel candida and related yeast toxins systemically throughout the body by changing the inner environment of the body, the herbs in Yeastie Beastie Buster™ have naturally occurring antiseptic, antimicrobial and disinfecting actions. This formula also settles stomach upsets and reduces gassiness that often accompanies yeast imbalances. Yeastie Beastie Buster™ strengthens, stimulates and balances the immune system and is also effective when used as an external wash on affected areas of the skin.

Harsh yeast cleanses to kill off and remove yeast infestation create endotoxic reactions in the body that can cause your child to get even more sick. Get rid of systemic candida problems gently and naturally with Yeastie Beastie Buster™
