Herbal Support for Better Memory and Overall Health

The brain is an amazing organ. It is made up of 100 billion neurons and can hold more information than is contained in all of the libraries of the world. Neurotransmitters manufactured by the brain allow information to pass through the circuits of the brain. They affect moods, produce natural pain reducers, natural tranquilizers and even natural appetite suppressants.

All functions of the body are affected by these neurotransmitters, which are made from specific nutrients that must be readily available in the brain. When the nutrients that make the neurotransmitters aren't available or aren't in proper balance, many kinds of problems may occur. Mood and memory are both heavily affected by nutritional deficiencies in the brain.

Also, the brain uses 20 percent of the body's energy and requires constant oxygen. The brain gets its oxygen from the bloodstream and uses 25 percent of all inhaled oxygen. Without enough oxygen, neurotransmitter and memory function are greatly diminished.

Specially formulated to support brain/memory activity, Memory Plus™ is rich in antioxidants and nutrients that protect and rebuild health. Although ginseng is traditionally used when over 40, this formula can be taken at any age.

The herbs in Memory Plus™ help support nutritional and oxygen uptake into the bloodstream so the brain can function normally. They are rejuvenating, balancing, strengthening and calming to the nervous system. They help to revitalize the nerves and brain cells, and improve blood flow through strengthening veins and capillaries.

This formula enhances memory retention and overall brain function through improving oxygen uptake into the brain and improving circulation and tissues in the cardiovascular system and brain. It rejuvenates the nervous system, the cardiovascular system, and supports the immune system. Its antioxidant action slows aging processes and clears damaging free radicals in blood. It also supports and builds healthy liver and kidney function.
